Garden Grove

Is about six miles northwest of Santa Ana. Anaheim and Santa Ana are important banking and shipping points. It is surrounded by as fine a farming country as can be found in Southern California. It is a good trade center. Sugar beets, corn, alfalfa, fruits, both deciduous and citrus, all grow luxuriantly. Dairying and poultry raising, however, are the popular industries. A fine school house, M. E. Church and hotel are located here. The Latter Day Saints also have an organization. There are no finer walnut groves in the State than can be found here.

LAGUNA BEACH

Laguna Beach

Is a very popular seaside resort, reached by stage from El Toro, about nine miles distant. It is also a pleasant drive from Santa Ana. Near Laguna the sea is teeming with fish, and among the rocks and in the caverns beautiful sea shells and mosses are to be found. Laguna is very popular with the best residents of Riverside and San Bernardino, and great numbers from these cities spend their summer at this resort. Hotel accommodations a first-class. A store and postoffice are located here is the name of a settlement in the La Habra Valley some three or four miles north of Fullerton, which city is its banking and trading point. A general merchandise store, postoffice and school house have recently been erected. The soil is well adapted to the raising of deciduous and citrus fruits, but grain growing is the chief industry.

LA HABRA

151

La Habra

LOS ALAMITOS

Los Alamitos

Is located on a branch of the Southern Pacific railroad some fourteen miles northwest from Santa Ana. It is the heart of the sugar beet section and the Los Alamitos Beet Sugar Factory is located here. This establishment alone distributes between $550,000 and $600,000 yearly among the farmers. The soil is a rich, deep, moist loam and perfectly adapted to the cultivation of a great variety of products without irrigation, most important among which is the sugar beet. The climate is mild and invigorating, and owing to the close vicinity of the ocean, some five miles distant, is cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter than cities further inland. The water for the land is obtained from artesian wells. A good school building and a fine new union church have just been completed.
